A Very Harlot Poncho

Materials

5 balls Mission Falls 1824 wool (50g =77 meters) I am short. If you are tall, you might want to add a ball or any other worsted weight yarn.
9mm, 60cm circular needle.

Gauge: while it's not hugely important (it's a poncho...not a cardigan) I got about 10 stitches and 18 rows to 4 inches.

Cast on 64 stitches. Knit one round Purl one round.

Round 1: YO, K1(mark this stitch), YO, K31, YO, K1(mark this stitch), YO, K31.

Round 2. knit plain

Round 3. knit, doing a YO before and after your marked stitch.

Repeat the last two rounds, alternating a plain round with a round where you increase either side of your marked centre stitch, and either side of your marked centre back stitch. After a couple of rounds you won't even need the markers, it will be pretty obvious.

Continue until you have used four balls of your yarn (or five, if you are tall) then cast off. I used the crochet cast off, but the world is your oyster. Do as pleases you.

Cut the remaining ball of yarn into 15" lengths. Not co-incidentally, this is the exact length you will get if you wrap the yarn the long way around the DVD case from "Raiders of the Lost Ark" and then cut at the bottom, though I suppose you could use any DVD.

Fringe at will. I put two strands in every other cast off stitch.
